- GRADUATE FELLOW NICOLE BELLE

Project Title: Educational Web Outreach Program
Project Description: This project consolidated and designed areas within the Education section of UCR/CMP's website, which were incorporated into the proposed design layout. All sites completed served a dual purpose. First, these educational sections brought together various legacy sites designed over the years by students, interns and volunteer, giving virtual visitors better access to topics on animation, stereography and photography. Second, the sites incorporated into the existing main gallery as informational kiosks giving actual visitors a self-guided tour to museum collections, exhibitions and educational projects. These educational sites provided contact time with both direct and indirect visitors to the museum by providing educators and parents with useful educational tools facilitating a positive learning experience for younger visitors.

- GRADUATE FELLOW JENNIFER BUSCHER

Project Title: Educational Podcast Outreach Program
Project Description: This project developed and produced podcasts for online presentations. These completed recordings served a dual purpose. First, these educational sections allowed listeners to gain access to information and key components of exhibitions and collections not readily available to the general public. Second, the program contributed to the experience and learning of concepts of students. This project also made such materials available online for educators to pass on to students in the classroom. These podcasts provided a type of indirect contact time that provided educators and parents outside the area with useful interpretations and information.
